International Cancer Imaging Society

The Society was established in order to meet the important challenges of advancing imaging in the multidisciplinary management of cancer by promoting education in oncological imaging and stimulating research in the study of tumour behaviour.

The Society aims to bring together radiologists, nuclear medicine and other specialists with an interest in oncological imaging for the exchange of ideas and to organise scientific meetings, multicentre research studies, and postgraduate courses within the field.

For further information please visit the Society website:

<http://www.icimagingociety.org.uk>

About the Course

The eleventh annual course of our Society will focus on the clinical role of new imaging techniques in patients with cancer that will aid clinical decision-making and improve outcomes.

Special focus sessions will cover a wide range of cancers including prostatic carcinoma, head & neck neoplasms, paediatric oncological imaging, lung cancer screening, and pelvic malignancies. Other topics covered will include imaging in post-treatment imaging, imaging in radiation oncology, the value of FDG PET/CT in oesophageal cancer, MRI-guided high intensity focused ultrasound ablation of breast cancer, and contrast-enhanced ultrasound in oncology.

Keynote lectures will address the important issues of whether imaging can help improve survival of cancer patients, and the integration of morphological and functional imaging in assessment to response.

A Film Interpretation Session with teams of recognised experts will offer insight into oncologic imaging and more ...

There will be scientific sessions, dedicated to proffered papers, which will present research in the field of imaging in oncology. There will also be poster sessions and the best overall paper and poster will be awarded a prize.

Workshops for smaller groups will focus on a variety of clinical topics. In addition, registrants will have the opportunity to gain practical skills at "hands-on" workshops dedicated to advanced prostate MRI, breast MRI and whole body diffusion MRI.

This course is designed for all radiologists, nuclear medicine physicians and other specialists interested in the diagnosis and management of oncology.

The meeting will be held in Copenhagen, Denmark, allowing the ideal combination of education and social interaction. The conference venue will be The Marriott Hotel located on the waterfront, within easy walking distance and close proximity to the attractions of the city centre.

A welcome reception will be held at the close of lectures on Monday at the beautiful City Hall, with the course dinner held at The Marriott Hotel on Tuesday.
